SENATOR ROOT WILL ATTACK BAD SYSTEM

CHICAGO, April 23.—Walter Wellman sends the following to the Record-Herald:

"During the progress of the tariff debate the eyes of the American people are likely to be opened to some of the evils of the present legislative system in this country.

"We Americans pride ourselves upon our democracy, upon our rule of the people, upon our representative government. And yet things are done in a way that would not be tolerated in any monarchical nation on the face of the earth.

"Everyone knows that the making of a new tariff law is the greatest event in our current history in which business is directly affected by legislation. The tariff is intimately interwoven with all business activities. The men who make a new revenue law hold in their hands the power to give prosperity to one industry and deny it to another, to say that A shall grow rich and B grow poor. This is a giant's power, and if it is to be wielded at all should be used with wisdom, with the collective wisdom of many of the ablest and most patriotic and best-informed men of public life.

"But as a matter of fact, under the conditions which now obtain in the American congress representative government is almost a farce.

"Some of the ablest of the republican senators intend speaking out plainly concerning this system during the coming debate. They intend to protest against it, to point out its dangers, the tyranny of it, the dire possibilities which it contains. Among the senators who are likely to be heard from on this subject is none other than Elihu Root. If he speaks, the country will listen.

"These senators do not intend to attack Mr. Aldrich as an individual. They will not question his honesty or ability. To the contrary they will testify to both.

"It is the system which they will attack—the system which places the power of a tyrant in the hands of any one man, no matter how honorable and able he may be.

"According to gossip at the senate, this country never before witnessed such a spectacle as that seen during the last few weeks in the big white capitol. After much turmoil and perturbation the house of representatives had discharged its constitutional function and prepared a tariff bill. But with a few exceptions the interests did not bother much with the house. They knew that body only proposed a tariff bill and that the senate would dispose of it. They knew it would be largely a waste of time, to labor with the house and then have it to do all over again at the other end of the capitol.

"But when the senate committee on finance took up tariff revision they camped at the door of that committee room. They swarmed in the corridors. They all wanted to see Aldrich. Most of these men had been here before. They knew the ropes. To them it was an old game. Other members of the committee didn't count in their estimation.

"And they were right. They knew what they were about. At first the republican members of that committee sat every day to revise the house revision. There are nine of these republicans. Two of them are incompetent and ineffective in any sort of serious work. Three more cared nothing about the tariff so long as it brought in a few articles in which they were especially interested were properly taken care of. The chairman of the committee satisfied their desires in this direction, and they pulled off. Another member, Hale of Maine, doesn't profess to know anything about the tariff, and as soon as he got what he wanted on wood

INVESTIGATING INDIAN MURDER 4 YEARS OLD

KINGMAN, Arizona, April 23.—For some time the authorities have been in possession of a story let out by the Indians to the effect that some four years ago a white man was killed in the Wallapai mountains by an Indian named Willatopy, who has since died. The killing was said to have been in retaliation for the death of an Indian called Johnny Shipp, who it was claimed at the time was beaten to death by a white man.

J. P. Gideon and A. F. Harris from the sheriff's office, recently went out to a spot in the Wallapai, about ten miles from town, where it was claimed the murder occurred. As told to the officers, Willatopy had killed an old prospector, who had claimed the mountains, to this place and then shot him with a lead from a shotgun. The body was covered with stones, but about a year ago two other Indians, relatives of the murderer, went to the place and pulling out what was left of the body burned it.

The pile of stones was easily found and when a pick and shovel, taken along, was used the bones of a man's hands were dug up, evidently overlooked by the Indians who were destroying evidence. No other articles of identification were found.

According to the story told by the Indians, the victim to the red man's thirst or revenge was J. J. Watt. While the killing was not done for the purpose of robbery, nevertheless they took from the body about $50 in money and a number of checks. The latter were destroyed. Watt had been in town about this time and told the story of the discovery of a very rich mine. Also it was known that he had received money from parties in the east who were going to interest themselves in the find. He disappeared after this trip to town, and the supposition has always been that after obtaining this money, he had fled for other fields.

Nothing has been done towards finding other evidence, although from the evidence now in, this story has been common property with the Indians, who now shift it to one of their number who has since died. A few years ago a little sweating woman possibly bring out the fact that others were implicated in the murder.

IN MEMORY OF SHAKESPEARE.

LONDON, April 23.—The three hundred and forty-fifth anniversary of the natal day of Shakespeare was joyously observed at Stratford-on-Avon today, and, although the celebration was scarcely so joyous as in some previous years, it was eminently successful. The old world town was gayly decorated in honor of the occasion.

The anniversary also was commemorated with interesting services under the auspices of the Chapter of Southwark cathedral. The poet resided for many years, and wrote some of his finest works within a few hundred yards of St. Saviour's church, by which name the cathedral was then known. Further, not only was his brother Edmund found buried there, but there is good reason to believe that he himself was a frequent attendant at the services and acquired there some of that deep knowledge of Holy Scripture which Bishop Wordsworth pronounced him to possess.

pulp he, too, subsided. Two more were mere puppets in the hands of the chairman, not daring to oppose him in any particular. One of the nine was left Aldrich, chairman. And Aldrich made the tariff bill all by himself. He was the team, wagon, and the dog under the wagon—the whole works. As for the democratic members, they never even saw the new tariff bill till it was presented in the senate.

GLOBE MINES SHOW GENERAL IMPROVEMENT

The local mining situation in the Globe district continues highly satisfactory. The operating companies are all busy and there is growing confidence in the future of the district, says the Silver Belt. The building of the railroad from Globe to Miami is having an excellent effect as it is realized that railroads are not built unless there is assurance of enough business to yield a reasonable revenue on the investment; and there is no one who has any knowledge of the Miami section, of its enormous copper deposits and the efforts being put forth by strong companies to develop them, who does not look forward to unexampled activity and increase in population in that part of the Globe district. There are mining men who predict that the Miami section in a very few years will become one of the greatest low grade copper districts in the United States.

Miami Sulphide Deposit.
The Miami Copper company, which a year ago had 2,500,000 tons of ore in sight, now has 12,500,000 tons blocked out, with the probability of a much larger tonnage being developed. Within a year the Miami company expects to be treating 2000 tons of ore daily, from which a recovery of 45 pounds of copper per ton would insure 32,000,000 pounds per annum. The ore already placed in sight is sufficient from which to supply 2000 tons daily for more than eighteen years. In view of this and the possibilities following further developments, it seems highly probable that the company will ultimately make provision for the treatment of 4000 tons of ore daily. The railroad should be completed to Miami by July 1, at which date active construction of the Miami company's concentrator will begin.

The Inspiration is another property which gives promise of developing into a great mine, rivaling the Miami, which it adjoins on the west. The ores of the Miami and Inspiration are of the same character, being mainly sulphide in the form of calcite disseminated through schist, and carrying from 2 per cent to 3 per cent copper. As recently stated in an eastern financial paper, five years ago mining men would scarcely look at a copper mine producing the ore of which contained less than 3 per cent copper, the Lake district alone exported; now several of the large producing copper mines in the west are quite low grade, such as the Utah Copper, Boston Consolidated, Ohio Copper, Nevada Consolidated and Cumberland-Ely. The ores of the Utah Copper company average less than 2 per cent copper, and in fact the ores of all the properties mentioned run less in copper than the Miami and Inspiration ore. The Ray Consolidated is another Arizona property the ore of which is similar to that of the Miami, although not carrying so much copper.

Developing Big Ore.
The Inspiration, which was taken over three months ago by the Gunn Thompson interest, is being developed under the direction of George E. Gunn as general manager, and Henry Krumb as consulting engineer. The surface showing on the Inspiration is far better than on the Miami, and the development work done by the former owners placed 1,500,000 tons of low grade sulphide in sight, and there is reason to believe that a tremendous tonnage will be revealed by the work to be done within the next year.

The Keystone is another property in that immediate section that is proving up well sulphides having been developed by churn drill tests and in a shaft that is being sunk. The Keystone is under bond to the General Development company, controlled by the Lewishans.

Live Oak and Eureka.
Adjoining the Keystone is the Live Oak, regarded by many as being one of the best undeveloped properties in that part of the district. Sulphide ore has been developed in a tunnel on the Live Oak for a distance of nearly 600 feet continuously.

The Eureka group, controlled by the Cordova Copper company, is another fine property which adjoins the Miami, Inspiration and Keystone. The company has just finished road building and grading preparatory to sinking a shaft.

North of the Miami is situated the Warrior Copper company's group of claims, of which the Montgomery is one of the best mines in that part of the district, having a large and high grade ore body partially developed. West of the Inspiration, J. D. and J. B. Coplen of Globe and E. T. Wilder of Kansas City own a large group of claims, which will be developed. A shaft has already been started and is down about sixty feet.

The American Banner Copper company and Rose Consolidated Copper company have good properties near the Miami.

Gibson Mine Has Rich Ore.
News was received from the Gibson mine Saturday that the ore struck a week ago on the 400-foot level was growing in size and richness. Drifting and crosscutting has disclosed the ore along the footwall for fifteen feet and twelve feet in width. Two feet of this ore which is chalcopryite runs from 25 per cent to 30 per cent copper, and ten feet averages about 8 per cent. This is a different ore body from that opened by a shaft below the 400-foot level. With two high grade ore bodies to develop, the Gibson mine should soon again resume the phenomenal production for which it was formerly noted.

IN MEMORY OF GENERAL WASHINGTON'S PALLBEARERS
ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 23.—A bronze tablets bearing the names of those who served as pallbearers at the funeral of Gen. George Washington was unveiled at Christ P. E. church today with interesting ceremonies. The event was attended by representatives of numerous patriotic societies of Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, and the District of Columbia. The unveiling was performed by two of the most youthful descendants of the pallbearers. They were little Miss Margaret Douglas Reese, great-granddaughter of Col. Dennis Ramsey, and John Callie Scott, great-grandson of Col. Charles Stimson.

The tablet was erected by the Mount Vernon Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The names of the pallbearers as they appear on the tablet are as follows: Col. Charles Stimson, Col. Dennis Ramsey, Col. Philip Marsteller, Col. Little, Lieut. William Moss, Lieut. James Turner, Jr., Lieut. Laurence Hoff, and Lieut. George Wise, all of whom were officers of the 106th regiment of the Virginia militia.

MANLY ART BOUT AT FORT HUACHUCA

Turner, Ariz., April 20, 1909.
One of the best exhibitions of science and strength ever pulled off in Arizona was given at Fort Huachuca last Sunday. In both contests the soldiers gave a good account of themselves.

A three-round bout between "Chicago Jack" Kelly of the Windy City and Trumpester Arthur A. Hand of G. troop, Eight U. S. cavalry of Fort Huachuca, drew a large crowd. Although the bout was decided a draw by the referee, the soldier was by far the best man. However, the Chicago Jack last can easily hold his own with anything of his weight, 132 pounds. Hand outwitted him by about ten pounds. Hand is clever, and anyone who tuckles him had better know how the thing is done, for he's a whirlwind.

The second contest was between Eugene Traveller of Bisbee and Philip Masser, the "Terrible Jew," of G. troop, Eighth U. S. cavalry of Fort Huachuca. Traveller proposed to throw the Jew within fifteen minutes. He didn't do it. And as a result a return-match will be arranged for next month, which promises to be interesting. This is not the first time that Masser has been on the mat and even they got his money it will be after a hard fought battle. "Happy" Deemer, the well known Los Angeles trainer, will manage and train Traveller. "Happy" himself, is not shying from any of the featherweights that are willing to take him on. Announcement of the coming event at the fort will be given the public in due time.

Private Mickey Powers, the "Irish Terror," will be in fine condition for his coming fight at Naco with Harry Kennedy, the "Detroit Kid," so he says. Mickey has been in the hospital for a few days with a slight cold, but has been doing light work with the clubs and bells. The match with the "Kid" at Naco will be to a finish and will be held in the bull ring on the Sonora side. A big crowd of Bisbee and Cananea sports are expected to attend. The fight will be pulled off on May 16.

Deputy Sheriff Porter McDonald was circulating along the "crick" late Monday night, looking as wise as a tree full of owls. Porter has a taken way about him that never fails to scatter what he don't "ketch."

Captain Birelow of the Eighth U. S. cavalry of Fort Huachuca is expected home from his official inspection of the Arizona militia.
